

Georg Wick

Education	Professional experience	Key projects
1958-1964 University of Vienna, MD 1965-1967 University of Vienna Institute for Pathophysiology Univ. Assistant 1967-1970 State Univ of New York, Buffalo, Post Doc 1970 University of Vienna, Ass. Professor 1974 Full Professor for Pathophysiology and Immunology	1975- Med. University Innsbruck Professor and Chairman for Pathophysiology and Immunology 1980-2004 Head of central experimental animal facility 2007- Prof. emeritus, coordinator of PhD graduate program 1991-2003 Austrian Acad. of Science, Inst for Biomedical Aging Research Founder and Director 2003-2005 Austrian Research Fund (FWF) President 2007- Biocenter Innsbruck, laboratory of Autoimmunity Managing Director	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> > Establishment and management of an internationally renowned university institute > Establishment and management of an extra-university institute for biomedical aging research > Cooperation partner of global pharma/diagnostics companies > Leader of numerous EU projects > Visiting professor/sabbaticals at Basel, Melbourne, Tucson > Supervision of 190 diploma- and doctorate studies > Speaker and organiser of national/international congresses > Austrian Scientist of the year > Holder of various national and international awards
Languages	Industry skills	Methodological skills
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> > German, English, French 	Specialist for pathology and immunology Member European Academy of Science Member of German Academy of Sciences – Leopoldina	Editor/coeditor of scientific journals (ie Gerontology) Member of numerous professional assoc. ~ 600 publications in scientific journals (Annual Reviews of Immunology, Nature Reviews Cardiology etc.) Author/coauthor of 12 books